A Picnic

Today is a holiday. Sam and his parents go hiking in the country park. The weather is very good. They talk with one another happily. They can see bushes and trees. They feel very good too!

Suddenly, Sam sees a nest. He climbs the tree to get a better view and he finds that there are baby crows in the nest. His parents do not stop him because they are talking and walking while Sam is looking at the nest.

Then, the mother crow sees Sam and attacks him because she thinks Sam is attacking her babies. Sam falls down and gets hurt. He cries so badly that his mum and dad hear him. Sam's parents immediately stop and run back to Sam. They see Sam lying down and bleeding.

They quickly help him. Not so long after, an ambulance comes and brings Sam and his parents to the hospital. Sam learns that he must never walk away. Next time when they go hiking, Sam would not walk away again and he would follow his parents.
